

CHRISTY LANE

Christy Lane is a recognized dance educator, producer of live shows and videos, and owner of her own record label, Christy Lane Enterprises. It all began in high school when she fell in love with gymnastics and dance and was considered a “fast learner”. By the age of 17 she was performing with the Palm Springs Dance Company and pursuing her training in LA and NY. As gymnast at CSULB, she continued her dance studies where she discovered her gift for teaching. She began touring the U.S., teaching and choreographing dance for Olympic gymnasts, dance studio owners, cheerleading companies, and physical educators. Eventually teachers were asking for more and Christy began writing books and producing videos. She relocated to Eastern Washington to finish her degree while teaching at EWU and decided to launch Class Acts Dance Academy with an opening enrollment of 300 students and a staff of twelve implementing new standards for teaching dance. After 10 years, she sold the academy to move back to California to assist in care taking her father. She continues to teach nationally and has collaborated with incredible musicians to create her own music label producing quality educational dance and exercise music. “I learn everywhere I go and take that quality material and teach it to others. I am hoping to make teachers lives easier and more fun!” She has launched hundreds of school programs and produces live interactive dance shows. Her award winning videos have been recognized by U.S. News and World Report, Washington Post, American Fitness, USA Today and Shape Magazine to name a few.
